

The talk will be a presentation of the main findings from a brand new report covering the situation regarding Acoustic traffic lights in Denmark. It will first and foremost raise points about the need for common standards and the organizational aspects of the implementation thereof. Also, it will touch upon the different ways in which the Danish Association of the Blind is involved, and not involved, in key decisions around the installation of acoustic traffic lights. The report is based on a survey sent out to all 98 Danish municipalities.
