"Acoustic systems for information and navigation" could be anything – or nothing. What is the scope of these webinars? Is there any obligation at all to provide those systems? Are there any common rules to comply with across Europe? Are we pushing in a similar direction in different countries? Which aspects are essential to have in mind if we want to achieve useful solutions? This session intends to identify the most important types of solutions and proposes an approach on how to promote their implementation in a coordinated manner on a national and European level based on the findings of the entirety of the coming webinars.
